DOWN THE YEARS

(By Margaret Ade Sweeney)
George Henry Alva, returning from his afternoon ride, leisurely climbed the veranda steps. He carried his grey head, like his grey garments and his eighty years, with admirable distinction. The years had not bent his broad shoulders nor lowered his clean, forward thrust chin.

In a sunny corner of the veranda, behind a straggling vine, his chair awaited him, and he sat peering out across the satin smooth road that bordered the lawn. Above the black, shining road the branches of giant maples met and dangled their scarlet leaves before letting them fall to whirl about the wheels of swiftly moving motor cars that eventually would crash them into dust.

Upon a lawn across the road two white-clad children, a boy and a girl, were at play—rumping about among the shrubs and shouting like Comanches.

The young-old man upon the veranda watched them intently. The boy was his grandson, George Henry Alva 3rd, a sturdy boy of about 9; the little girl, Susie Roberts, perhaps a year younger, was the daughter of his neighbor, Mr. Stewart Roberts, who had just purchased the place across the road—one of the most costly mansions in that exclusive suburb. Alva found it fascinating to watch the grandfather of Susie Stewart, his own boyhood playmate, romping about with his grandson.

"I wonder if Susie Stewart knows I wonder!" George Henry Alva was thinking aloud. "In 1916 Roberts was a poor man, now, only two years later, he has millions. It's enough to make Susie turn in her grave—The Stewarts were square."

The years—58 of them—slipped from the young-old man missing in the October sunshine, and between him and the rumpling children memory unrolled her film. Alva was back again in the town Alydale and he listened to the hum and click of his father's knitting mill. The film shifted and the big mill stood silent. The government had returned goods and cancelled orders because the socks for the soldiers were found to be shoddy and the contract called for all wool.

CLEANLINESS IS HEALTH

GILLET'S IYE EATS DIRTY
It's one of the most useful and economical articles on the market.

"Let Gillett's Iye do it" is a common expression among those that are familiar with its many uses.

he saw the mill workers idle and angry and their children in the streets shouting at him as he passed "Shoddy Shoddy, Shoddy Alva!"

Again the film shifted and Susie Stewart, now his betrothed, stood before him—a proud, slim, brown haired girl in white, billowy flounces. Her brown, troubled eyes looked into his. She was speaking:

"I—I like you well, George, but my father—he—he—I have decided not to marry you. So I—I give this back to you."

"I understand, Susie. I understand. We are the shoddy Alva's now."

The years had failed to blot the memory picture of Susie staring through the little speech that had changed his whole life and sent him away from Alydale town forever—away from his father's house, heart broken and baring with shame at the curse his father's greed for money had brought upon them, determined to shake his way in the world and never again hear the shameful word "Shoddy."

Picture after picture passed before him, and when memory had unrolled her film the young old man smiled—smiled a broad, triumphant smile. Across the road the two boisterous children were still at play. Suddenly his grandson came scurrying over the road, the little girl in close pursuit. Up the lawn the flying white-clad figures came and sped past the veranda; and then from somewhere in the rear the children's laughter reached him and he returned to his musings.

"It's a small world, after all," he mused to the straggling vine. "I suppose I ought to go over and call on Roberts—he is Susie Stewart's son, but—he is all Roberts—all Roberts. No Stewart could have become such a shameless profiteer—pretty name profiteer—it sounds more respectable than 'shoddy' Ho—"

A swift patter of feet behind him scattered his thoughts. Susie Roberts her brown pigtails flapping, sped past his chair. Close behind her, gaining on her with every step, rushed his grandson. In their mad rush across the verandah the children had not seen him.

Down the lawn the boy caught the girl and a tangle started for the possession of the ball.

"It's my turn!" the girl shouted.

"Tie!"

"Tie!"

"Tie!"

Alva arose and watched them through the vines. He smiled. Susie

SOME RECORDS OF DEEP WELL BORING

The following is taken from F. G. Clapp's report on oil and petroleum published in 1914.

The deepest well drilled in America was sunk by the Forest Oil Company at West Ellensburg, Pennsylvania, to a total depth of 5,575 feet. Only one string of casing was used, it being 61.4 inches in diameter and 900 feet deep. At 2,285 feet a quantity of gas was struck, which was sufficient to make steam to drill the rest of the hole.

At 5,500 feet the temperature was 129°F. At that depth the crown pulley broke, cut the rope, and dropped the tools 100 feet, causing a suspension of operations, and causing the well to be a failure.

To drill the well extra heavy machinery was needed. The total weight of the cable from top to bottom used in drilling was 14,000 pounds, representing a value of $2,250. The approximate cost of the well was $40,000.

The deepest well in the eastern States that ever produced oil is situated on the G. Robinson farm, Wetaskiwin county, West Virginia, and it reached a depth of 3,555 feet.

East of Rymnick, Upper Silesia, Germany, 6,572 feet, object coal; completed 1903, after 1 1/2 years work. This well the deepest here in the world up to 1914.

McDonald, Washington County, Pa., 6,487 feet, object oil or gas.

Donkloof, South Africa, 5,582. Nine months' work. Diamond drill hole. 14 months work, diamond drill hole.

Bismarck Run, Queensland, object, water. Depth 5,945 feet. Flow 70,000 gallons per day.

Johannesburg, South Africa, 4,435 feet, diamond drill hole.

Elderslie, Queensland, 4,223 feet, object water. Flow, 1,400,000 gallons per day.

Stewart's grandfather was more than a match for his sturdy grandson. The struggling children went down, rolled over and scrambled to their feet again. The little girl clung to the ball. But at last, the boy wrenched it from her and tucked it under his arm.

For a few moments the panting, disheveled little girl faced the young victor. Then like the flash of a whip her shrill voice slashed into the silence "Shoddy, Shoddy, Shoddy Alva!" she shouted. The young old man and the bewildered boy watched her as she fled toward the big white house across the road.

A SEVERE COLD

THE LIKE SHE NEVER HAD

Our advice to you is, never neglect what at first appears to be but a slight cold.

You think you are strong enough to shake it off, but colds are not so easily fought off in this northern climate, and if they are not attended to at once they may, sooner or later, develop into some more serious lung trouble.

Mrs. Edward Klacade, 60 Bryden St., St. John, N.B., writes:—"I wish to express my hearty thanks to your valuable remedy, Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and what good it did me."

Last fall I contracted a serious cold, the like I never had. My head and nostrils were so clogged up I could get no rest, and could scarcely get my breath. I tried remedy after remedy until at last I thought I would try "Dr. Wood's." After the first dose I felt relief, and by the time the bottle was finished I was better. I wish to extend my thanks to your valuable remedy. After this I will always keep a bottle in the house."

Vitamines

Another great and helpful find, enclosing the sons of men; eat cockle-burn if you feel bad, and you'll be well again. For burg are full of vitamins—whatever they may be—and from all symptoms and all signs of ill they'll set you free. Cockle-burns are the stuff, its clear, that sends us to the tomb, that fits us for the shroud and bier, that hampers our youthful bloom. Roast beef is but a deadly snare, and pie is like a gin; when the accustomed bill of fare, for death's concealed therein. Raw grub is full of vitamins and that's why cattle grow, and why the horses hump their spines, kick up their heels and go. Most men are languid, needing spurs to keep them at their toll, and when they've eaten cockle-burns they fairly paw the soil. I feel my aunt some cockle-burn, to see what she would do; there never was such smoke as hers, no rival the house she flew. I wonder that our fathers stayed on this old earth so long, for all their customs were decayed, and all their theories wrong. They never heard of vitamins, and yet, wrong-headed men, they never would take in their signs till three score years and ten.—Walt Mason.

At the recent dairymen's convention at Regina, Mr. G. H. Hutton, superintendent of agricultural and animal industry of the C. P. R. at Calgary, gave an interesting description of a trench silo. He said: "During recent years it has not been a very serious problem to make milk in dairying, inasmuch as the price of butter and cream and whole milk have been ruling fairly high during that time, and the man who gave his business the serious consideration which it should receive has been able to show a satisfactory return on his investment."

However, with the decline in values of all dairy products which has taken place during the last 12 months, and which, according to certain forecasts will continue for another six months, the question of reducing costs of production becomes a very live and important problem.

"Cattle give best results when supplied with an abundance of succulent fodder. June pastures have frequently been named as the ideal condition for economical production of milk and beef. If by a system of pickling grasses or similar fodders we can make them available for a much longer period or even during the entire season when good grass is scarce, we will have accomplished a result which will contribute toward the production of maximum quantities of milk and butter at minimum costs. Such a result can be achieved by the use of silos and silage crops."

The silowater will see aside some of the objections which might be raised to the other silage crop. First, it is superior to corn for dry areas, as it outyields that crop during years of low precipitation. It is a crop which responds quickly to an increase in rainfall or to irrigation, as we have secured yields of over 34 and a half tons of sunflower to the acre on irrigated ground, while this season we secured a yield of 12 tons to the acre on dry land and during a very dry season. Second, in the other hand the sunflower crop germinates and grows at a lower temperature than corn, and resists frost in spring and fall, thus enjoying in the climate a much longer growing season than corn.

"This crop, because of its weight per cubic foot, can be safely stored in the trench silo. Such a type of silo brings this class of fodder within the reach of thousands of dairymen. It means more than this to many farmers, for many of them will now be enabled to engage in mixed farming, keep dairy cattle, and thus stay on the land and get on their feet, whereas prior to the advent of this crop they were facing defeat and despair."

Other silos
"In recommending the trench silo, I do not for a moment disregard any of the types of silos now in use as a means of storing feed. They have one disadvantage, however, and that is that they cost money. The trench silo is a method of storing feed which is inexpensive apart from labor, and most men who are struggling to get on their feet are willing to make an expenditure of their own labor in order to achieve success."

"The quality of the feed so stored appears to be quite equal to that stored in the ordinary silo. It may be argued that there is a certain loss of moisture by drainage, and the

WHY SOME BOYS LEAVE THE FARM

Why did you leave the farm, my lad?

Why did you bolt and leave your dad?

Why did you beat it off to town

And turn your poor old father down?

Thinkers of platform, pulp, press,

Are yawning in deep distress;

They seek to know the hidden cause

Why farmer boys desert their pas.

Some say they long to get a taste

Of softer life and social waste,

And some will say the silly chumps,

Mistake the suit-cases for the trumps,

In wagging fresh and gormless air

Against the smoky thoroughfare.

We've all agreed the farm's the place

To free your mind and state your case.

Well, stranger, since you've been so frank,

I'll roll aside my lazy bank

The misty cloud of theories,

And tell you where the trouble lies,

Left my dad, his farm, his plow,

Because my calf became his cow.

Left my dad, 'twas wrong of course,

Because my calf became his horse

I left my dad to sow and reap,

Because my lamb became his sheep,

I dropped my hog and stuck my fork,

Because my pig became his pork;

The garden truck that I made grow,

Was his to sell but mine to hoe;

It's not the smoke in the atmosphere

Nor taste for life that brought me here

Please! tell the platform, pulp, press,

No fear of toil or love or dress

In driving off the farmer lads,

Just list the methods of their dads.

While Others Stay at Home

With dad and me it's half and half,

The cow I own was once his calf.

I'm going to stick right where I am

Because my sheep once was his lamb,

I'll stay with dad—he got my dog

Because my hog was once his shoat.

No town for me—I'll stick right here,

For I'm his tractor engineer.

It's cross-plug with dad and me

In a profit-sharing company.

We work together from day to day—

Believe me, boys, it's the only way.

We have received the initial copy of "The U.F.A." which is to be published twice a month by the United Farmers of Alberta.

W. Norman Smith is the editor and H. Higginbotham manager. H. W. Wood says in part, "This is the first issue of 'The U.F.A.' This paper is a natural outgrowth of our organization. The organization is the soil in which it germinated. It is small; it could not be normal and be otherwise. Natural growth is from small beginnings. If the soil is right, and the cultivation right, the growth will be normal and vigorous. Our paper will grow and bear fruit just in accordance with the appreciation and support of the organization on the one hand, and the practical management and editorial deals on the other." ## She Walked With a Cane

HEALTH TALK No. 1
By Dr. H. B. Foster, D.C.

Just how a child comes by displacements of the spinal vertebrae is not hard to appreciate if you watch them at play. They get some hard falls and jolts, and unless the spine is given attention every now and then some chronic ailment is apt to develop. It was this with Violet Watson.

Something threw the proper vertebrae out of alignment and Rheumatism resulted. For years she walked with a cane.

Rheumatism is due to pinching of spinal nerves to the kidneys and liver. This results in sluggish activity of these two eliminating organs. As the waste poisons accumulate in the system, the symptoms develop that warrant the physician calling it Rheumatism. The Chiropractor brings the patient back to health by eliminating the cause—spinal nerve pressure—and when this pressure is gone, Nature gradually cures the system of waste poisons and the sufferer becomes well.

BEDFAST FOR SEVEN MONTHS—NOW WELL

"My daughter, Violet Watson, was ill 10 years with rheumatism. Last attack she was bedfast seven months. Her case was pronounced hopeless, and we turned to chiropractic. After a time she threw away a cane that she had used for years. Today she is in perfect health. I can sympathize with all such sufferers and recommend chiropractic."—William R. Watson, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 12233.

Cancellation

Most of the boys who read this article have studied quick cancellation and found it a quick and easy method of solving problems. There is another kind of cancellation, not so commonly used, a kind that should be taught to all boys and girls, and that becomes a valuable habit in time.

Two boys were one day speaking of an absent classmate.

"He is in the games," said the first.

"Yes," replied the second, "but he always plays fair."

"Isn't he dull in school though?" "But look at the way he studies. He never wastes a minute."

"He scarcely ever recites in history," went on the boy.

"But I never knew him to cheat in any recitation or examine he studied," answered the second. "And you know, as I do, that many of the boys who get the highest marks don't always get them honestly."

"He has so little to say."

"But you ever heard him tell a lie. He is the most truthful boy in the class."

Every unkind word, you notice, was cancelled by a kind word from the second boy. It's a plan worth trying. The next time you hear an unkind remark, try to cancel it with a kind one.

Scrubby Relations

When Mary Vance asked her to go to the evening and "to meet a friend of Oily's," Lida Parish had no idea that she was going to meet her future husband. A friend of Oily's might mean anybody; she was always being asked in to meet a friend of Oily's. Once it had been an old-school teacher who was stopping overnight in the city, and had looked up her former pupil. To know Oily Vance once was to remember him forever, his ability to keep people on his acquaintance book long after they had left the city, and had looked up her former pupil. To know Oily Vance once was to remember him forever, his ability to keep people on his acquaintance book long after they had left the city, and had looked up her former pupil. To know Oily Vance once was to remember him forever, his ability to keep people on his acquaintance book long after they had left the city, and had looked up her former pupil.

There was a tense moment. "Well, do not say that," Lida said, getting up from his lap and sitting down opposite him. "Well, stay on the job. And we'll win out against the whole batch of Waynes and public opinion. I feel that I have it in me to be a useful good little fighter, and some day, when you're mayor, or go to the assembly, I'll laugh at all this."

"I ought to have prepared you," Joe said. "It's going to be hard for you to hear. What are you going to do?" he asked.

"Well," Lida lifted her head—"I'm going to do different from what I have done. I've stayed at home waiting for people to come and see me. Now I'm going out after them. And somewhere I shall find someone who will meet me half way. In the meantime, you keep right on at your job, Joe, and never mind me."

All this was to be heard, Joe, though Lida had not the least idea of what she was going to do. Secretly she shed many bitter tears.

She was still pondering with growing despair at her position, when one day as she sat thinking the wretched business over, wondering if Mary Vance or Aunt Cordy could enlighten her, the door opened and Mrs. Taylor her next door neighbor, burst in.

"Oh, Mrs. Wayne," she cried, "come as quick as you can. Helen has fallen and hurt her head."

She was gone and Helen after her. Blue-eyed Helen lay on the couch looking up with closed eyes. Somewhere Lida had heard that a child who had suffered a blow on the head, especially on the back of the head, must not be allowed to go to sleep. She caught Helen up and began to toss her about, with her, slap her, shake her and talk to her.

"What are you doing that for?" gasped the distracted mother.

"It's the only way," answered Lida. "Come Helen, you must not go to sleep if I have to pinch you black and blue."

And she succeeded in keeping the child awake until the doctor came. Even after he came she had to go on rocking, tossing and teasing Helen until she had passed the danger point. By that time Lida was exhausted and don't let me go my own way undisturbed. It isn't that. It's the fact that people know about them and hit them onto me no matter what I try to do or be. And they're going to hit them to you, too, Lida, which is the best thing I dreamt of. If I had dreamed of it I'd have prepared you, but I believed when people saw you and realized the fact that we were trying to start a new family branch that was clean and worth while they'd favor us for our intentions. But it seems not. And so—well, I guess the thing for us to do is to start in somewhere where the shadow of the Wayne family can't follow us. Oh, I'll find another job. Mr. Crossman will give me an A1 recommendation. And the house will sit before sundown."

There was a tense moment. "Well, do not say that," Lida said, getting up from his lap and sitting down opposite him. "Well, stay on the job. And we'll win out against the whole batch of Waynes and public opinion. I feel that I have it in me to be a useful good little fighter, and some day, when you're mayor, or go to the assembly, I'll laugh at all this."

Edmonton Weekly News Bulletin

By arrangements made by the agricultural department and the freight traffic department of the provincial government, with the Canadian freight association, the railways have reduced freight rates on potatoes from the north part of the province, whereby there will be a 45 cent rate from Edmonton to Vancouver, and a 60 cent rate from Edmonton to Minneapolis. Under this arrangement a great quantity of Edmonton district's surplus potato crop is being marketed.

Several new school fair associations are being organized in the province now. The new bulletin on school fairs and their organization, together with prize lists, has now been issued jointly by the agricultural and education departments.

The new bulletin on vegetable gardening has been published by the department of agriculture and is ready for distribution.

Provincial Health Report
Health propaganda carried on by the provincial department in the province through clinics, by the preaching of the public health nurses, and through all the general activities of the health department, supplemented by similar work of local health departments, has all had its distinct result in the encouraging decrease in the infant mortality rate in the province. This is shown in the annual report of the provincial health department, tabled in the legislature by Hon. R. G. Reid.

Dr. Laflamme, deputy minister of health, points out in his report, that the infant mortality rate in Edmonton, for instance, dropped from 105.4 in 1920, to 87.3 in 1921, and in Medicine Hat from 115.1 in 1920 to 76.7 in 1921. Similarly in the province during 1921, 15,516 against 15,521 for 1921, a decrease of only 15. The total for 1920 was a record for the province by 1500.

Marriages totalled 4225 during the year, a decrease of 426 from 1920. There were 85 divorces in the year.

The death rate has dropped to 11.1 per 1000 only $4 per 1000. The total deaths in 1921 were 9901, a decrease of 596 from 1920.

The splendid progress of municipal hospitals is told of in the hospital report. The following statistics show the growth.

Total patients, 1920, 2439; 1921, 2411.
Hospital days, 29,585 in 1920, 30,956 in 1921.

During the year five municipal hospital districts were organized, namely, Chaurone, Red Deer, Warner, Taber and Grande Prairie. The adverse vote at Red Deer against the sub-hospital plan, Mr. Whiston thinks, is an indication of the unpopularity of this particular phase of municipal hospitals and suggests the elimination of the provision for sub-hospitals. New hospital buildings have been erected, or are being erected at Viking, High River, Hanna and Provost.

The number of maternity cases handled in the municipal hospitals was 616 in 1921, as against 444 in 1920.

Total grants to all hospitals in the province during the year was $259,564.50.

The province is caring for 32 cases of incurables at Mucedon and Daysland at a total cost of $11,925.25.

Doctors were honored during the year to continue practice in the far north at Fort Vermilion and Fort McMurray. Doctors were also given assistance to remain in drought stricken areas during the year.

The provincial laboratory reports an increase of 400 per cent in examinations made.

The public health nurses during the year, inspected 563 schools, reporting 7220 school children not vaccinated, and 6360 with defects of various nature, and 4128 without defects. Clinics held totalled 115, with attendance of 1165, and home visits 1337. The baby clinics had 718 enrolled and 4849 nurses' visits were made.

The annual meeting of the stock breeder's association of northern Alberta was held during the past week in Edmonton, during which various speakers gave lectures on subjects of interest to all branches of stock breeding. Among those speakers were Hon. Geo. Howland, minister of agriculture; H. A. Craig, deputy minister; S. G. Carlyle, livestock commissioner; Alex. Goshorn, Dean Howes, University Faculty of agriculture; Prof. Dowell, Dr. Cowan, Capt. Laidner, S. G. Freeman and others.

During his address at the dinner on Wednesday evening Hon. Geo. Howland announced the policy of the government to continue extensive work by means of short courses and demonstrations, in a practical way, the instruction to agricultural clubs or to agricultural agents to assist farmers to meet and solve their problems and the intention to offer more assistance to those competing in the international livestock show at Chicago. Mr. Howland took occasion to urge attention to diversified farming, and said that the man on the land who did not raise his own food in the way of butter, eggs, milk and meat, was not a true farmer. Deputy minister Craig spoke of the recent legislation looking after with cream stations and stated that these had cost the industry $400,000 a year. He estimated that whereas in the past it has cost $300 a can to ship cream to the creamery, under the new scheme it would cost about 15 cents. This meant a straight saving of $150,000 and with improvement in quality through government grading of the creameries, of another $150,000. The whole scheme would mean a total saving of $300,000.

Hal Insurance.
The annual meeting of the Hal Insurance Board of Alberta, held at Calgary, last week, showed that at the beginning of the season last year there were 2,042,551 acres insured under the hail insurance district and 1382 applications were received from 58 municipalities outside for insurance on $23,185 acres. On account of drought, the insurance on 200,245 acres insured and 11,710 acres outside, was cancelled, leaving a total of 2,064,655 acres insured throughout the season. Compared with the year 1920 that showed a decrease of 200,745 acres.

The total risk carried was $75,384,106, which is about 7 per cent less than the amount carried in 1920. Of the total amount a little over 8 per cent was insured at $5.00, slightly more than 9 per cent at $6.00 and the balance of more than 22 per cent was insured at $10 per acre.

The bad crop conditions in Alberta during the year had the very natural effect of greatly reducing the total amount of hail insurance carried. In 1920 there was about $45,000,000 of insurance written in the province. During the year, in 1921 the total amount was probably less than $28,000,000. It was pleasing to note, however, that while there was a reduction this year of nearly 40 per cent of the total amount of insurance written, the amount carried under the municipal plan was only about seven per cent less than in 1920.

Delegations to the government during the past week included one to Hon. Geo. Howland, asking some consideration of measures to prevent forest fires, and also one to the minister of justice, asking some consideration of measures to regulate prices of grain produce. Another delegation which met Premier Greenfield and Hon. Mr. Smith asked for extension of railway facilities from Hasty on the E.D.C.R. to Fort Assiniboia, 51 miles.

Amusement Tax Revenue
The Alberta amusement tax during 1921 brought in a revenue of $181,102.55 to the provincial treasury, according to the annual report of the provincial secretary tabled in the legislature Thursday afternoon by Premier Greenfield, this being an increase of $10,894.25 over the preceding year.

The general revenue of the department was $1,695,349.29 for the year, a gain of $69,566.79 over 1920. The revenue from the amusement tax was $1,482.74 weekly.

Corporations paid in taxes $339,529.72; the motor vehicle act brought in $178,531.39; the mine owners act $275,928.54; the coal mines act $6,016.94; the theatres act $22,592.50; the railway mileage act $110,000; the companies ordinance $27,346; the respecting auctioneers and peddlers $5,750, with other items comprising the balance.

The number of auto licenses sold almost touched the 40,000 mark, the actual number being 39,582, or an increase of 1,837 over 1920.

The number of companies incorporated and registered reached 641 during the year with an aggregate capitalization of $21,995,731.13.

Arrangements with respect to special rates on seed grain shipments are

CALIFORNIA FARMERS SELLING THEIR GRAIN IN BULK TO ENGLAND

San Francisco, Cal.—Completion of a plan whereby it is expected a third of the grain crop of California will be sold by the growers in British and other foreign markets without the intervention of the middlemen in this country, was announced by the California farm bureau. The bulk of grain to be marketed is estimated at $5,000,000 and its amount at nearly $50,000 tons.

TROUBLED FOR YEARS WITH CONSTIPATION

If you have suffered from constipation for years, tried all kinds of remedies without getting relief, if you have been subject to all the minor ailments associated with constipation, wouldn't you consider it a blessing to be able to keep the bowels in a good healthy condition and prevent disease getting a foothold on your system?

Dr. J. Thompson, Broomfield, Sask., writes: "I have been troubled for years with constipation, and tried various remedies which did me no good. Then I tried Miller's Laxative Pills and they have done me a world of good. They are indeed a valuable pill, and I heartily recommend them to all who suffer from constipation."

Price, 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price to The W. H. Miller Co., Ltd., Toronto, Ont.

are indicated just for this purpose: their regular use relieving the worst cases of constipation.

Mrs. J. Thompson, Broomfield, Sask., writes: "I have been troubled for years with constipation, and tried various remedies which did me no good. Then I tried Miller's Laxative Pills and they have done me a world of good. They are indeed a valuable pill, and I heartily recommend them to all who suffer from constipation."

BACON HOGS

The question of bacon hogs is a very live one among the dealers these days, and even the leaders of the two stock departments of the federal and provincial governments are not agreed as to what types of porkers are the best to produce bacon, for the foreign market.

The following extract from speeches made at the annual meeting of the Canadian Swine Breeders' Association as published in the Family Herald and Star of Feb. 22nd, last, will be read with very great interest by the stockmen of this community.

"Mr. R. H. Harving, of Thorncliffe, Ont., during his speech made the following interesting statement on the question of feeding hogs. He firmly believed that there was need of a big awakening in Ontario, and elsewhere, in the question of feeding; that approximately 60 per cent of the Yorkshires, even those that were the correct bacon type, would not make the best bacon if sold at the right weight because of wrong methods of feeding. A little later, Mr. Archibald, superintendent of experimental farms, referred to this question and stated that the work conducted by Mr. Holtby, Dominion husbandman, at Ottawa, strongly bore this out; that given the best type of hog now bred he could be spoiled for making select bacon simply by the wrong system of feeding."

Mr. Archibald has said "something" in saying "that given the best type of hog now bred. Might it not be that the bacon breeders are bred too rangy and grow to fatness in the desired weight, and might it not also be that some of the other good breeds have been a little too much the opposite. From what there has been said on all sides there appears to be no breed of hogs that fully fills the requirements. As breeders and feeders of long experience are fully convinced that an inferior type of hog that is long and smooth is one that will bring the best results under general conditions. At the present time there seems to be no perfect breed for bacon. Type, we believe, is much more important than breed."

ALBERTA SEED OATS TO EASTERN CANADA

WEIGH FROM 47 TO 48 POUNDS A BUSHEL AND ARE WIDELY DISTRIBUTED

Alberta is to receive very considerable prominence this spring in connection with seed oats grown here and which will be distributed in the nine provinces and Ontario, according to a statement made by C. M. Stewart, secretary of the Dominion government seed branch.

Mr. Stewart mentioned that last season the department secured in all about 400,000 bushels of good clean seed oats. These have now been cleaned, and last week, he said, between 60,000 and 70,000 bushels were shipped to eastern Canada, principally to Quebec, Nova Scotia and Ontario.

The oats in those sections of the Dominion were exceptionally light and only ran from 24 to 34 pounds to the bushel, while the Alberta product averaged from 47 to 48 pounds cleaned. The oats were being sold at cash, plus storage, cleaning and railway transportation. The price delivered at Toronto was from 65 to 70 cents a bushel.

"Much difficulty is being experienced by the department in getting a good variety of wheat," said Mr. Stewart, "and the government will pay more attention to this important matter," he said. "It is the utmost importance that a pure variety, suitable to the various districts, should be selected. Some three or four years ago Marquis wheat, for instance, could be secured 55 per cent pure, but owing to the manner in which farmers have mixed their seed in the meantime, this is no longer the case."

If you have gone over your fishing tackle and have everything in good shape for the opening day, turn to the March issue of Rod and Gun in Canada and keep fuel in the fire kindled by the Rod Gods by reading "Speckled Beauties" by L. P. Stoenman; "A Spring Session" by "Trout Parole" by Bonnycastle Dale and "Fishing the Cowichan River from a Canoe," by John P. Babcock. If you are not a fisherman, read any one of the hunting and trapping stories and articles contained in the March issue of Canada's national sportsman's magazine. The rifleman interested in the Lee-Enfield will find some very helpful information, while the "accutecum" enthusiast will read with interest the trap department. It also contains several especially good nature photographs which will prove of interest to all worshippers at Nature's shrine. Rod and Gun is published monthly by W. J. Taylor & Sons, Woodstock, Ont.

Finally started in taking 'Fruit-A-Tives' and continued the treatment regularly as I found myself getting better. After using eight boxes of 'Fruit-A-Tives' (which cost only $4.10) I am completely well without a trace of Rheumatism."

WHAT THE SALVATION ARMY IS DOING

To illustrate—Does the reader know what becomes of the wayward girl, who on leaving Port Saskatchewan arrives in the city without friends, no money, and no place to stay? If they are anxious to follow the straight path as many of them are, what chance would there be for them if the Salvation Army were not there to shield and protect them? If they rap at the door of the average Christian home and explained their troubles, what answer would you get, think you?

Again—What do you suppose becomes of the mother with five small children, whose husband is sent to prison, and who herself is an invalid? Guess not. There is only one refuge for her—The Salvation Army. Again—Here is a splendid girl, the daughter of happy and respectable parents who has been cruelly wronged by a so-called friend. What is she to do? Where is she to go? She must hide her sorrow and shame. Ah, to the Salvation Army of course, for, dear reader, the Army cared for almost 500 unfortunate girls last year, with 85 per cent of them permanently restored.

Then what do you think becomes of the many unwanted babies which arrive in this vale of tears. And where do the children of the poor go who through misfortune cannot support them. Look into the nurseries and into the homes of the Salvation Army scattered up and down the countryside of our fair western Canada.

Again—Take the case of a splendid young man—some mother's boy—who returns to the city from a six months term in the provincial jail. Slim chance he has of getting a job in the ordinary way. You can imagine this. Well, the Salvation Army labor bureau look after him and proceeds to find him a job. Without the Army men of this class would be compelled to live a life of crime, simply because in this year of grace very few can afford to employ a man who has served a term in the provincial jail.

So it is. Unfortunate girls, unwanted babies, wayward boys, broken hearted parents, distressed widows, homeless old men, forsaken wives, all their turn look to the protecting wing and helping hand of the Army.

Yet the burden of caring for broken and sorrowing humanity often constitutes a very serious financial anxiety, and to relieve this so this noble work can be successfully maintained for 1922 the Salvation Army officials are battling forth efforts in Northern Alberta to raise $15,000 on April 2nd to 7th.

St. Patrick's Day has come and gone and not one solitary drunk was found in the streets of the city. This was the first time in the history of the city that such an amazing thing has occurred, and, according to veteran police officers, it was one of the quietest days ever experienced. Last year twenty two drunks were carted off to St. Patrick's day and for with Irishmen were jailed for fighting—Calgary Alberta.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE ACT IS MADE LAW

St. Patrick's Day in the legislature is one that will stand out prominently in the minds of members when the session now drawing to an end is recalled. Whether or not the day had anything to do with it, the fact remains that what is likely to be the only real inter-party battle of the session was staged during the afternoon and night, ending up with the final reporting of the Women's Institute act.

After standing obliquely on the order paper for several days, and being carefully skirted by the government when moving bills into committee, the premier threw this measure, officially designated Bill 46, into the arena at exactly five o'clock, and before the house rose at six for refreshment there had developed a sun-down barrage sufficient to turn a skirmish on the western front green with envy.

COMMUNICATION

(We do not necessarily endorse the communications forwarded by this or any other correspondent under this heading.—Ed.)

Editor, The Times:

The minister of agriculture ought to be congratulated for courage to repudiate the thoroughly autocratic amendment to the institute act passed by the present legislature. Evidently the Hon. George Hardacre is not very familiar with the workings of women's clubs, and was poorly advised in the matter when that first draft was made.

The public understood that the retirement of Miss Melnes was in the interest of economy: not to pave the way for enlarged patronage by creating an office for some woman to take the place of Miss Melnes with enlarged powers and fortified by an addition of several other appointees to act as an advisory council.

"The only thing," expected of the new government was to put their fundamental principles into practice. "Special privileges to none" would do away with the grant not only to the institute but to a large number of men's organizations as well and would spell true economy.

The service which the institute has rendered in the way of speakers, demonstrators, teachers, etc., should not be discontinued and should be available to all organizations. It is absurd to think it necessary to select a new committee to see to that phase, as the province is maintained at great expense a university thoroughly equipped, through the department of extension, to care for this work, and the officers of the department would give justice to all in the most efficient and economical manner. All overlapping of machinery to perform the same increases add to the budget deficit and make our already intolerable burden of provincial debt.

With such officers as Mesdames Murphy, McClung, Rogers and Miss Noble, the institute may be trusted to manage its own affairs. With a little efficiency enough to raise $100,000 in one year, the loss of government grant is not going to cripple the splendid work they are doing.

In the debate on the bogus amendment, R. C. Marshall, M.L.A., Calgary, put the whole thing in a nutshell when he asked the government to go on record as being opposed to bonuses in any shape or form. Emma J. Root

BARON BYNG AND H. WOOD DISCUSS WEST

Ottawa, March 19.—Baron Byng, of Vimy, and H. W. Wood, of Alberta, foregathered yesterday over two old but highly prized books, and with feet under the Rideau Hall mahogany, discussed men and things, the apostle of populism in Alberta has been in the city for two or three days with a delegation from the Canadian Council of Agriculture, and Lord Byng, who had been asked to come to dinner and talk over the situation in the west.

This Mr. Wood could not do, but when pressed to "come anywhere and have a chat," he took a taxi to Rideau Hall and spent a few hours with the governor-general. He was frankly delighted with the honor done him, and with the new acquaintance he had made. His remark, returning, was that he "had met a real man."

When they sat down at Rideau Hall the western Progressive was proffered a cigar which he refused, but suggested that he and his wife with Lord Byng promptly produced his gun, and together they went over the condition of things in the western provinces. It may be safely assumed that Lord Byng got some new light on the farmers' movement.

The Orla Institute club will meet at the home of Mrs. H. J. Montgomerie, on Friday, after school. All members are requested to be present.

If you have anything to sell or if you want some article, make your wants known through The Times.

STETTLER HAS NO MAYOR NOW, CITY MUCH PERTURBED

Stettler, March 17.—The affairs of this town are in a considerable turmoil at the present time, and as a consequence Stettler is at present without a mayor.

Town Clerk E. Roberts, preferred charges of irregularities against the Mayor, Mr. Nash, and Councillor Beatty. A committee consisting of the balance of the council thoroughly investigated the charges, completely exonerating Mayor Nash and finding that Councillor Beatty had done nothing other than what other councillors had done since the town was incorporated. However, owing to the haltingly heaped upon him, Mr. Nash resigned.

Speeds Up Work--- Saves Time For Play

Piping frogs—swelling buds—catkins on the willows say "Spring is here" and in the light of previous Springs you see ahead a period of unremitting toil—of days all too short for the work that must be done.

That is where a Ford Car will help you. A dozen times a day it will save precious time—for a Ford Car will take you anywhere. You do more work in less time, with less effort, and have a chance to see the "movies" once in a while—even during the Spring rush—when you own a Ford.
